Personal Profile

I am a Clinical Director at ATtherapy which was set up in 2012. ATtherapy have a range of services including Specialist Speech and Language Therapy, Assistive Technology services and an innovative award winning AAC mentor service. I have led our team to grow and expand and am now very proud of our team of over 20 staff including therapists, assistants and AAC mentors. I have led the expansion of ATtherapy to a UK wide service and we now have associate speech and language therapists around the country. Our AAC mentors are competent AAC (electronic communication aid) users who mentor those on our caseload who are just starting their AAC journey or who are not as competent at using their systems. Our assistive technologists provide invaluable support to the therapy and mentor teams as well to clients supporting and designing innovative AT solutions to enable clients to live their lives to the full.

I have extensive experience as a Specialist Speech and Language Therapist working with individuals who require augmentative / alternative communication systems (AAC) and assistive technology (AT). I have worked for the ACE Centre (a regional AAC assessment hub) as part of the assessment and training team and managed several national projects. I have also worked for the Manchester Universities at Access Summit as an Assistive Technology assessor for students who require both personal support and assistive technology to complete their degree and / or post graduate degree training. I have provided training for modules on AAC at a number of Universities for undergraduate and postgraduate students. As a regular contributor to research projects at Manchester Metropolitan University I have been granted Visiting Academic status. I have also presented and developed AT and AAC training for parents and professionals both nationally and internationally. I am a regular speaker at national and local AAC training events. I am a registered trainer for AAC software implementation and work with the all the leading AAC companies to consult on and develop new products and resources. I am a trustee of Communication Matters (CM), the UK chapter of ISAAC (International Symposium Alternative and Augmentative Communication). As part of this role I co-chair the CM the AAC User Focus Group. This is a group of highly competent AAC Users who provide feedback to CM on their activities and suggest topics and areas that CM should be focussing on. I have high expectations of all individuals and believe that positive relationships are the key to success.

Professional Qualifications

Employment History

ATtherapy - 2012- present

Clinical Director.

ATtherapy was set up in 2012. I initially combined working independently with my ACE Centre and University roles. I now have a mixed clinical/management role and support a range of individuals in various settings. I lead the team in clinical skills and carry out regular supervision to ensure a high-quality service to all individuals and their families. We have a range of service level agreements in schools (mainstream and specialist) and a caseload of varied individuals, from parental referrals to highly specialist medical legal cases.

Access Summit – 2009 – 2014

Assistive Technology Assessor.

My role as a specialist assessor was to provide support and assistive technology equipment recommendations to students with complex disabilities to support them in the completion of their degree or post graduate degree qualification.

Ace Centre North – 1999 - 2014

Specialist Speech and Language Therapist.

Specialist multi-disciplinary assessment and training team, ACE Centre North. Here I gained extended experience of working with children and also adults with a range of needs such as complex physical impairment and acquired neurological conditions such as strokes and MND. I carried out large scale training events and supported development and dissemination of the accredited AAC/AT modules. I managed ACE Centre's involvement with several national projects.

Pennine Care NHS- 1999
